It's time to act different...

Public service demand is increasing

Digital and social media channels are bringing people closer together, allowing them to communicate quicker than ever before.

Personal costs are also increasing as people feel the pinch of these tough economic times.

As a result, communities expect more from public service.

Ability to deliver it is reducing Government agencies are under pressure to do more for less. They have less money to spend than ever before and this is reducing further each year.

Cutting more costs and delivering better services cannot be done through operating alone.

It's time to act different...

Joint commissioning

By working together, agencies can pool resources and design solutions that offer better value for money; they can joint commission.

Government supporting drive for partnership working

- ✓ £3.8 billion in a single pooled budget for health and social care services to work more closely together
- ✓ Innovation fund of up to £50 million for police forces to work jointly with each other and with local authorities
- ✓ £100 million to help local authorities to cover the initial costs of working with each other, such as new IT systems make the criminal justice system work together more effectively creating a fully integrated criminal justice system

- Spending review 2013

Commissioning is a hot thing in government right now. Government has invested in commissioning academies to help commissioners and providers understand its importance.

"This country needs more than ever effective commissioners able to deliver better outcomes for citizens and better value for money on ever tighter resources. Commissioners that will embrace new and innovative forms of delivery and build public services that better reflect the needs of their user."

What's stopping partners working well together?

71%

of public service workers experience barriers to sharing information where it is a critical part of their day-to-day work.

- Guardian

Effective commissioning

- ✓ Effective commissioning is simply about delivering the best outcomes for your target group by harnessing the available resources from stakeholders that have an interest in that group's wellbeing.
- ✓ As financial resources become more limited we need to be more innovative and collaborative. This includes harnessing public, private and voluntary sectors to share assets and engage in practices that go way beyond the realm of traditional procurement.

As pressure continues to build on organisations to achieve more with less, partnering offers tremendous promise as a strategic solution.

pam is powerful cloud software

It enables you to share information and benefit from new ways of working in a secure, trusted environment.

pam has all the features you expect from collaboration software. Unlike other generic services however it also equips teams with the dynamic tools, frameworks and pre-configured solutions that lead to even faster, more effective results, at lower cost.

We also stand out with the pam ecosystem, helping your organisation and its partners change for the better.

The screenshot displays the pam web application interface. The browser address bar shows 'http://pam.alliantist.com'. The page features a green header with the 'pam' logo and a search bar. Below the header is a navigation menu with 'Home', 'You', 'Initiatives', and 'Community'. A 'Change my homepage' button is visible. The main content area is divided into several sections:

- KPIs: A table showing key performance indicators with columns for 'Impact' and 'Actual'.
- Updates: A list of recent updates from users like Ray Barton and Tim Jones, including actions like 'Created the KPI reading' and 'Updated the Activity'.
- Task it / Discuss it: A section for task management with a 'Write your task description' input field.
- Programmes: A table showing programme health and performance metrics.
- Projects: A table showing project completion percentages and status.
- Overdue and upcoming to-dos: A list of tasks with descriptions and associated entities like 'Logica'.

Trust and security

We understand your information is valuable and stakeholders need confidence in the service in terms of security, accessibility and reliability.

In order to comply with government policies on management of information and enable people to have the most flexibility in use, pam offers two platform options. These are simply described as pam for up to IL2 (PROTECT level working), and pam up to IL3 (RESTRICTED level working).

Pan-Government Accredited IL3 Service

pam is the first IL3 restricted information service of its type to receive pan-government accreditation meaning that agencies and their partners can trust the environment and quickly adopt the platform to get early benefits. It also saves the agencies themselves spending weeks or months of cost locally accrediting it.

Up to IL2 Service

The code base that runs on the IL2 service is identical to the IL3 service, as is the ISO 27001 and HMG SPF overarching system of management.

UKAS Approved ISO 27001

Alliantist, the organisation behind pam, and pam are UKAS approved ISO 27001. (Registration number ISM 1012806). Our key data centre partners have the same or equivalent accreditations too.

The pam ecosystem

pam has a rich ecosystem that goes beyond software and helps you achieve better results, together...

Why pam for commissioning?

- ✓ Offers the philosophy and practices for commissioning success whether alone or with partners
- ✓ Enables strategic planning and operational delivery in one place
- ✓ Always on, secure and trusted; two versions, with the only pan-govt accredited IL3 platform of its type
- ✓ Future proof your investment and subscribe to what you need when you want it

We have seen the power and potential of how it [pam] can join up the agencies to achieve great things together.

Martyn Underhill, Police and Crime Commissioner, Dorset
